

Boston

home

READY, SET, RENOVATE!

Frank and Sharon
Roop in their Back
Bay apartment.

Fall 2008 (Display until 12.30.08)

84 >

bostonmagazine.com

$4.95

0 74820 87374 8

In with the New Radical makeovers in Boston, Lincoln, Weston,
and more

Citizens Re-Volt
Five local eco-pioneers show how to zero out
your energy bills

PLUS
The $13,000 tub, flue-less fireplaces, and a jaw-
dropping glass garage

TRINITY PLACE
ONE HUNTINGTON AVE.,
BOSTON

- 1: Mitchell and Alison Robbins
- 2: Donna Bubash and Doug Dorfman
- 3: Haya and Joseph Linde

HEAVENLY SPOT

Grand views and glorious amenities make Trinity Place a bit of urban paradise. Here, three sets of condo owners open the doors to their ultraluxe hideaways. BY ERIN BYERS MURRAY

#1

WHO THEY ARE Mitchell and Alison Robbins WHAT THEY DO Mitchell is a real estate entrepreneur; Alison is a full-time mom. WHERE THEY CAME FROM Mitchell bought the condo before marrying Alison. Before that, he lived in the Back Bay. Alison was living in Florida when they met. THEIR STYLE Modern and functional. "When we had kids, we made subtle changes to give us more space," says Mitchell. THEIR DESIGNER Architect Maho Abe of Zen Associates in Woburn. THEIR FAVORITE DETAIL "We live in a large house in Florida half the year," says Mitchell. "When we come back, we have more intimacy in this unit." WHY TRINITY? "Location," Mitchell affirms. "And the whole building gives off a great sense of warmth."

FAMILY ROOMS: Clockwise from top, the couple and their kids in the kitchen, where stone and wood exude an organic feel; the dining room's Ariel extension table by Dakota Jackson; the living room's Diesel coffee table and Solo chairs, both by B&B Italia; the children's nook; a cheery chair and desk by Fritz Hansen.

